Cause of Fire Explosion of a Drum
Containing Chemicals or Oil in Hold of Vessel.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Oct. 15.—Between eighty and ninety passengers on the Volturno were trapped in compartment No. 2 by the first explosion on the vessel Thursday morning and either perished at once or were burned alive. This news was brought to port today with the docking of the steamship Grosser Kurfuerst, hearing 105 survivors of the disaster.

It came from the lips of Waldron Bisselman, third officer of the Volturno, one of the rescued.

The Grosser Kurfuerst docked in Hoboken shortly before one o'clock this afternoon. Committees of the Red Cross and Jewish organizations and friends and relatives of the dead and living awaited their coming. Ten autos and an ambulance were on hand to bring the unfortunates to places of temporary refuge in Manhattan.

Explosion Was Cause.
In broken English Bisselman, a quiet mannered man of about 35 years, told of his experience during the 18 hours he was aboard the fire swept vessel. The cause of the fire he established as an explosion of a drum containing chemicals or oil in the forward part of the vessel.

"I was just going to the bridge," he said, "when the first explosion occurred. The Volturno trembled as if she had been struck by a heavy shell. Almost immediately other drums began to explode. There was a rapid fire of explosions that sounded like cannonading."

"Captain Inch was on the bridge. I heard him shout to man the lifeboats. The passengers came running in panic to the decks. The sailors sprang to the davits. A gale was howling and the seas were sweeping in great rollers around us."

Passengers Crowded Rafts.
The passengers crowded the rafts so that the sailors had difficulty in lowering the boats. Meantime the small guns and cases of chemicals were exploding by the dozens every minute. No one thought the ship could last five minutes.

"Flames swept up from No. 1 compartment forward and leaped to the forecastle. Within a few minutes it was blazing. The gale fanned the fire."

A boat was lowered and made away. It seemed as if it would capsize every minute. We lost it time after time in the trough of the sea. Another was smashed against davits before it could be lowered. The carpenter's boat, filled with men, women and children, put off. Each boat required a complement of sailors to man it, and as each got away it left us with fewer men to lower the remaining boats.

Helps Lower Boats.
"I helped lower the third officer's boat. When it struck the water a heavy sea hit it and swept several of the women overboard. The chief officer was swept overboard too, but he held and climbed back. I saw him take off an oar to steer the boat away from the ship as it was in danger of breaking to pieces against the Volturno at any moment. He used the oar to advance and the boat drifted away."

"The fourth officer's boat was lowered next; about twenty-five passengers were in it. We let it down to clear of the ship and I saw it far away about ten minutes afterwards. That was the last time that boat was seen so far as I know."

Life Boats Capsized.
"I ran to the starboard and saw another boat full of people. We did not lower that, however, as the captain said that the sea was too high and that a boat could not live in it. I turned around and saw the carpenter's boat floating 100 yards or so away. It was bottom up."

"Then I went to boat No. 5 as the captain said we might try to lower them. Meantime the explosions were dying down. I found that boat No. 5 had already been whipped by the gale against the davits and that its bow had been smashed. I don't know why, but I lowered the empty boat. It got

Washington, Oct. 15.—Republican Leader Underwood today blocked efforts of the house democrats to recess three days at a time and refused to agree with Majority Leader Underwood that no legislation should be transacted before Dec. 1st unless the currency bill should return from the senate before that time.

Mr. Underwood stated that adjournment could not be asked of the senate because it was the duty of the party to uphold the hands of the president in his desire to expedite currency legislation.

"The president has asked me," said Mr. Underwood, "not to agree to an adjournment until the bill has been either passed or an agreement has been made in the senate."

"I came to urge President Wilson to run the freight trains over obstructions holding up the currency bill," said Senator Tillman today as he left the White House. Senator Hughes and Senator Marine of New Jersey also brought the White House advice that prospects for speedy action were growing.

MEXICAN SITUATION NOW OCCU-
PIES FOREMOST ATTENTION OF STATE DEPARTMENT.

MAY SEND WAR SHIPS

President Contemplates Preparation
For Any Eventuality As Result of Recent Developments.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Oct. 15.—The Mexican situation today was regarded by officials here as drifting toward a crisis with the United States awaiting Huerta's next move.

The commanding feature was the action of the Spanish minister in Mexico City, calling a meeting of the diplomatic corps to discuss Huerta's assumption of a practical dictatorship. Administration officials and diplomats attached deep significance to this move.

This development attracted great attention because of the Spanish minister's friendship for Henry Lane Wilson, former ambassador of the United States to Mexico and because the Spanish minister never has supported the policy of the United States.

Hold Secret Session.
President Wilson discussed the situation with Secretary Bryan and several senators and later the foreign relations committee of the senate had a meeting behind closed doors. It was a regular meeting day, however, and the session of the senate was not called by development.

Chairman Bacon of the committee, after a talk with President Wilson expressed the view that even had the United States recognized Huerta, his assumption of the role of dictator would, in his opinion, have been sufficient cause for a withdrawal of recognition. There are no precedents for withdrawing recognition once extended, but diplomats pointed out that such an effect might be substantially accomplished by withdrawing an ambassador.

Keep Warships Ready.
Plans for keeping an American naval force in Mexican waters commanded almost equal attention, especially in view of the strained situation following so closely Huerta's announcement that his government's permission for the presence of the American man-of-war would not be renewed this month and the announcement of this government's intention to accomplish its end without conflicting with the laws of Mexico by changing the details of ships.

It was made plain that the Washington government was determined to have a naval representation ready for any eventuality and some observers through the next step toward a culmination of the situation might be forced over that point.

Wilson's Note Brief.
Publication of President Wilson's latest note to Huerta attracted wide attention for its brevity and forcefulness.

The Mexican government's reply was awaited with keenest interest. Meanwhile all the agencies of government concerned in the situation were in constant and close communication.

In instructions delivered by Charge O'Shaughnessy to the authorities at Mexico City, defining the attitude of the United States towards Huerta's assumption of dictatorship were as follows:

"The president is shocked at the lawlessness of the methods employed by General Huerta, and as a sincere friend of Mexico, is deeply distressed at the situation which has arisen. He finds it impossible to regard otherwise than as an act of bad faith toward the United States Huerta's course in harassing the congress and arresting the deputies."

"It is not only a violation of constitutional guarantees, but destroys all possibility of a free and fair election. The president believes that an election held at this time under the conditions as now existing would have none of the sanction with which law surrounds the ballot and that the result therefore, could not be regarded as representing the will of the people."

"We could add a premium to the cost of bars, but this premium could not be placed higher than one quarter of one per cent. This is about the limit of arbitrary action. Of course, all of this is predicated upon a legitimate export demand on the basis of exchange rates."

"If the demand, however, is an arbitrary one such as recently took place in connection with gold shipments to Paris, the president of the United States should be employed to proclaim an export duty on all gold exports unless it can be shown that the export is taking place strictly on the basis of prevailing exchange rates. This power probably would never be invoked, but it would have a different effect."

RALPH SMITH OF STATE BOARD OF CONTROL ATTACKS SO-CALLED SOCIAL WORKERS.

LAUDS WISCONSIN LAW

Important Matters Regarding Treatment of Criminals Discussed at Sessions of Prison Association.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 15.—Misrepresentation of prison life by many so-called social workers who have not come in contact with prison work was declared by Ralph E. Smith, president of the Wisconsin state board of control, to be one of the primary causes for the unrest in prisons today.

Mr. Smith made this statement in an address on "Wisconsin Penal Legislation," before the American prison congress which is attended by representatives from every state in the union.

Cause of Prison Outbreaks.
In prefacing his remarks Mr. Smith said that in spite of the advancement in prison reforms in the corresponding length of time have there been more serious outbreaks and revolts in prisons. He claims that this unrest is caused by wardens and boards failing to keep faith with the prisoners and by those who represent the worst conditions in prison life as the prevailing conditions.

"The agitation of so-called social workers who have not come in personal contact with prison work nor have made an extensive study of problems and conditions, is contributing a large share toward this condition of unrest," said Mr. Smith. "They are agitators and opportunists who care little for the truth. They are more interested in the publicity which the applause of the irresponsible and the unconvicted. Their misrepresentations of the conditions of prisons and prison life have led prisoners living under admirable prison conditions to believe that they are treated worse than the worst and that their condition is nothing less than that of abject slavery. They insist that the law is wrong and that they do not reform."

Contribute to Disorders.
"On the other hand, they are today not only causing unrest within prisons, but are contributing a great deal to the development of lawlessness and disorder without. Conviction for crime must be positive and certain. The convicted man must be dealt with in a manner which shall insure protection to society against his return to crime and degradation. He should be kept in confinement for a sufficient length of time to afford an opportunity to instill in him right thought and action. Emotional hysteria works havoc with prisoners in the same way as halfheartedness without the proper place for its exhibition is within the walls of a hospital for the insane."

Mr. Smith then took up a discussion of recent legislation in Wisconsin. He advocated the strengthening of the liberal parole laws. He said no prisoner should be released on parole, however, until some suitable place had been found for him to work, under the supervision of a probation officer.

Praises Wisconsin Law.
In the course of his remarks on labor conditions in prisons Mr. Smith declared that there are fewer prisoners employed in Wisconsin on contract than in the last twenty years. He thought Wisconsin had enacted the best law on this subject when it gave the state board of control power to furnish all labor possible outside of the contract to prisoners in the commonwealth and state prison. He said that Wisconsin had allowed prisoners to do overtime work under the contract system but had made it a rule that only one-third of these earnings can be drawn by the prisoner. The remainder goes to the state.

He advocated that all prisoners should be taught "domestic science" and those things that shall enable them to make their home life that which it is not.

In conclusion Mr. Smith said every state should pass a law like one which is enacted in Wisconsin for the compensation of innocent persons convicted of crime.

For Indeterminate Sentence.
No human judge can fix intelligently the penalty a criminal should pay for his crime. In the opinion of Mr. Smith, the law should be a member of the law board of parole; and only "the judge of all the earth" has a right to say, "the soul that sinneth, it shall die."

Nor should punishment be the object of the foreign penitentiaries according to Mr. Berry; rather, punishment should be an indirect result with reformation the object. For one prisoner may have but moral whooping cough and may soon be cured, while another may have a moral leper and may never be cured; yet both may be discharged together under the present method of administering justice in many states.

The palliative for the long train of moral disorders that lie in the trail of the fixed sentence, in Mr. Berry's opinion, is the indeterminate sentence. In his address today before the American Prison Association, Mr. Berry so asserted, adding that it would be better to set for ages simply to sentence criminals to imprisonment and leave to another tribunal, inferentially the board of parole, the task of determining how long the sentences should be.

Parole Committee Reports.
The committee on reformatory work and parole, in its report to the annual meeting of the association today, dwelt upon the need of greater specialization in criminal work and the segregation of different classes of law-breakers. The petty offender, often young, weak and impressionable, it recommends, should not be subjected to the dangers of association with hardened criminals.

Criminal offenders should not be confined in prisons where contact with the vicious will inculcate a life of crime, but should be given work in the open, work of the kind to which they are naturally inclined. HAS PERILOUS TRIP

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Bridlington, Eng., Oct. 15.—The American balloon Goodyear, one of the contestants in the international race for the James Gordon Bennett aeronautic cup in which representatives of eight nations started from Paris on Sunday, had an adventurous journey. The balloon with the pilots, Ralph A. D. Preston and Ralph H. Upson, on board, landed near Flamborough, Head on the north coast, within two hundred yards of the edge of the dangerous Brompton Cliff which falls sheer into the sea.

When the Goodyear left Paris on Sunday the weather was hazy and there was a heavy rain. The balloon drifted across the English channel. The coast was reached in the neighborhood of Cherbourg on midnight on Sunday. The wind then freshened and the aeronauts sighted Southampton at 3 o'clock on Tuesday, then began a northward drift, but the wind later increased to half a gale and Mr. Upson decided that it was unwise to continue further.

Sport Snap-Shots

The Yale coaches are having quite a time with their ends. That is, the candidates who are trying out for end on the variety. And thus far the material on hand for end men is not showing any very great promise. So much so in fact that the coaches are considerably annoyed and very frankly express their opinions of the youngsters right out in a loud voice so that all can hear. For example, Shevlin will say: "I just wish a few of you were playing against me while I was playing end. I'd do you up like pretzels and wouldn't even muss my hair at it, either." Coach Howard Jones hands them this one in an unkind manner: "Do you couple yesterday but I had figured him wrong, that's all. He didn't fool me none. I whiffed twice all right I admit but that one drive Conolly called foul was four feet inside the line. I guess I see it all right. If I don't get to that guy the next time I'm a awful liar. I'll make 'em think I'm battling ringworms. I ain't one of these here guys that like to beat but I like to see a umphre on the level. They got a roasting coming for pulling that there rough stuff like that Egan and Connolly done."

Rumor for some time has insisted that Johnny Kilbane was outgrowing the featherweight class and that he expected to give up the title soon and enter the lightweight division. But it seems that Kilbane's intentions are far from such and the reports that he has put on too much weight to make the featherweight limit are also quite groundless. Not so very long ago while in a Cleveland newspaper office just previous to starting east, Johnny stepped on the scales stripped to his heavy unmentionables, and tipped the scales at 123. Training down four or five pounds would be an easy matter. Jimmy Dunn, Kilbane's manager, wants it announced that Johnny never in the world would enter the lightweight class. "It's folly," says Dunn. "Why, he's entirely too small. If he trains very hard he's nearer a featherweight than a featherweight and he'd never be able to make the lightweight class at all. That story comes from the coast, where he had fought at one time, rather than from here. At that time I had Joe Rivers in mind, because he was a big card out there and I knew Johnny could knock the heck out of him. But that deal fell through. Johnny's look is rather tall and broad shouldered, but he's very thin-limbed and can make the featherweight class with ease. Never has he weighed over 124 when in training and frequently nearer 120 or 122. Why should we take on lightweight when there are plenty of legitimate featherweights in the country?"

young ladies realize what Hardwick will do when he bucks up against you?" The ends: "No, sir," Jones: "Why, he won't even use interference. He'll just box at you real angrily and pass on."

Say, I says to Egan after the game, I says, "You better get your lamps trimmed," I says, "You mule, 'Cidin' me out at second in the third inning there like he done and me with the mag in my mitt and waiting on the ball. ### RACINE ELEVEN WISHES GAME WITH JAMESVILLE

A good football eleven, outside of the high school team, would not be without chances for games, for besides the Rockford Athletic club wishing to schedule a game with a Jamesville eleven, Racine wishes to fill their schedule with a game with a team from Jamesville.

In the challenging letter, the Tiger football team wishes a game with any on hundred and thirty-five to a hundred and forty pound team at Racine, Wisconsin. For information address Carl Miller, 150 Lincoln street, Racine.

BOWLING TEAM IN RETURN MATCH AT BELOIT TONIGHT

The Jamesville bowling quintet will journey to Beloit tonight where they will play a return match with the fine City five. The local team won the first match of the season last week, played here at Miller's Alleys, from Beloit, and a close contest can be looked for tonight. Following are the men who will make up the local aggregation: S. E. Richards, John Gzell, George Kueck, William Heise and O. Osborn. The contest will take place at the Jensen Alleys.

FREEPORT HONORS ATWOOD AND DALTON

Compliments Work of Two Local Men Who Played Sensational Game.

An account of the Jamesville-Freeport game as Freeport saw it, is worthy of mention here, for in many of the stars of the game. Among the sturdy halfback and Dalton, the plunging fullback, of the local eleven, are complimented upon by Freeport papers as having been in the shining light during the entire struggle. Here is what the Freeport states:

For the visitors, Capt. Dalton, halfback and Atwood, at fullback, played the best game, the little fellow and the big fellow, making an ideal combination. Dalton plowed through the Freeport line like a cat. He got away a number of times, only to fall in his tracks on the slippery field. Atwood probably outshone any man on either team. He got away time and again for large gains, and it seemed as if he was everywhere on the defense.

Practice for the week started last night at Grant Park in preparation for the game at Darlington next Saturday. Egan and Dalton will undoubtedly be out of the game Saturday and Curtis will probably shift Jones to right guard, and place Badger in at left guard. The men were still yesterday from the game, but are feeling in prime shape again.

WITH THE BOXERS.
Jimmy Clabby and Frank Logan have been signed to box in San Francisco, December 25.
Joe Jeanette has been offered $3,500 to meet Georges Carpentier in Paris next month.

MAKE FINE SHOWING AT LEXINGTON TRACK

CALIFORNIA DILLON AND LITTLE RAPID OF KIMLIN'S STABLE IN FAST COMPETITION.

MABEL RISER'S SEASON

Four Year Old Filly Owned by Tom Siegle Has Done Phenomenal Work in Her First Campaign.

By C. E. (Buck) Hunter.
In my review last week of the Jamesville trained horses, Ernest Axtell was mentioned as the real Bear Cat of the trotters, as he has been trained and raced by E. C. Kimlin. There are two others in the Kimlin stable that were brought to light last week at Lexington. They were the horses California Dillon, 2:12½ and Little Rapid 2:24½.

As California Dillon got only fourth money—Little Rapid was fortunate enough to get third—while Ernest Axtell was started the same day and driven by his owner for second money. This is a remarkable showing for our local horses racing in high class society.

In looking over her season's races enough mention has not been made of Mable Riser, 2:18½. Early in the season I wrote about this mare being a probable 2:12 trotter, but she fell short of this mark a trifle. But she is a high class seventeen trotter for next season, as she beat all the trotters at some time during the season, and in a number of a number of races early in the season she met and defeated a high class trotter called Battle, that took a record of 2:09½ last week at Sedalia, Mo. Looking over Mable's campaign which started in July and which took her through five states, it figures up fourteen starts. Out this number she was eight times first, three times second, once third and once fourth, and her season's racing closed at home on Tuesday where she defeated Six Cylinder Penn 2:15½ in straight heats.

Mable Riser is a stoutly made four year old and was sired by Early Riser a product of Wisconsin. A great deal of credit is due to James Alder the trainer and driver of Mable Riser for she has notions of her own besides being very high strung, and a trainer with a trotter or pacer with notions of her own, must have lots of patience.

As stated before Mable's campaign closed Tuesday and she now goes into winter quarters. Sound and—proper wintering I predict a mile in 2:12 or better. In 1914, then, Squire owner has refused several good offers for Mable as his love for the game will not warrant him selling this good trotter.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

"Germany" Schultz, the old Michigan star, is assisting coach "Hurricane" Yost at Ann Arbor.
Harry Kersburg, the former Harvard guard, has developed a strong and well-drilled team at Holy Cross this year.
Ten touchdowns in a game lasting just 44 minutes, was the record of the Princeton Tigers in their game with Fordham.
Some Harvard enthusiasts are talking 2 to 1 odds that the Crimson will beat both Yale and Princeton this year.

John Cates, the old Yale end and track captain, is helping the coaches develop the Johns Hopkins University squad at Baltimore.
Princeton began playing football in 1869. Yale in 1872, Harvard in 1874, Pennsylvania in 1876, Dartmouth in 1882 and Cornell in 1887.
Dartmouth has shown a lot of improvement of late. The Hanover eleven is lighter than for some years, but will make up for this in speed.
Washington and Jefferson has one of the heaviest teams in its history this year. The W and J eleven has a game with Yale October 25, and expects to make a good showing against the Elis.

The University of Pennsylvania football eleven suffered a loss when it was announced that Harry Wilson, veteran tackle of last year's eleven, would not come out for the team this season.
The record score of the college teams for the season to date is that made by Beloit against De Kalb Normal at Beloit, Wis. The home eleven scored 116 points, making 16 touchdowns, 14 goals from touchdowns and two goals from placement.

PROPOSE TO PUT LID ON CITY OF DETROIT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Detroit, Mich., Oct. 15.—If the plans of Police Commissioner Gillespie are effectively carried out, Detroit will be entitled to call herself a "viceless town" after tomorrow. Midnight tonight is the time fixed by the authorities for sounding the death knell for all disorderly resorts. Landlords and proprietors have been notified that gambling houses, "red light" resorts and other places violating the law will no longer be permitted to exist. The task of keeping the lid clamped down will be entrusted to a public moral bureau consisting of police officers and women employed by the department.

RACES INTERESTING DESPITE SLIM CROWD

Attendance Well Pleased at Driving Park Yesterday Afternoon—Mabel Riser Wins.

If the attendance at yesterday's racing matinee at the Driving Park had been many times larger, the races themselves could not have been better. While several heats were not as close as they might have been, the general verdict was that the racing bill was in all ways satisfactory. Mabel Riser's victory over Six Cylinder Pen, in the mile event, proved one of the sensations. Mabel Riser, is owned by T. F. Siegle and although only a four-year-old, is gaining great prominence at present on the half mile and mile track. Her time yesterday was 2:20 for the first heat, and 2:21½ for the second heat. The race was for two-out of three heats. In the No. 1 pace, J. C. N. owned by Smith of Beloit. The latter proved to be the winner after two straight heats, the time being for the mile: 2:24½ and 2:14½. These trotters gave the attendance an interesting event for the best three of five heats.

The No. 2 pace for a half mile and best three out of five, went to White Hope, a comer, and owned by Ed Sheridan. The race was of great interest, because of the fact, that it took the five heats to settle first place. Major K., owned by Kuhlrow, put up a close second, capturing two firsts and three seconds. White Hope captured the first two and last heats, but lost the second and third. Dexter S., owned by Schmidley failed to make any mark yesterday. In the fourth heat, however, she ran a close race with Kuhlrow, who crossed the line just ahead of her. White Hope broke when half way round the course. The time for the first two and last heat captured by White Hope was, 1:12½, 1:13½, and 1:12½ respectively. Kuhlrow's Major K. set two good marks in winning two firsts in the third and fourth heats, the time being 1:12 and 1:14 respectively.

An extra event which was added to yesterday's feature program, in place of the No. 3 special race for Evansville horses, was a close race between Ceskonia, owned by Goodspeed, of Beloit, and Brown Bessie, owned by Smith of Beloit. The latter proved to be the winner after two straight heats, the time being for the mile: 2:24½ and 2:14½. These trotters gave the attendance an interesting race.

IT'S NOT TOO LATE TO ENTER GYM CLASS

Young Women Urged to Attend Session of Physical Culture Class This Evening.

Young women of the city who contemplate enrollment in the physical culture class which has been organized for a course of exercises and drills at the high school gymnasium throughout the fall and winter months, are urged to be present tonight for the first lesson. Miss Hill will have charge of the class which meets at eight o'clock. A number have already signified their intention of taking up the work, which promises to be most interesting and beneficial.

RAILWAY SURGEONS MEET TO DISCUSS ACCIDENTS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Ill., Oct. 15.—Means to lessen the number of accidents, both to employees and passengers, is scheduled as the chief subject for discussion at the tenth annual convention of the American Association of Railway Surgeons, which began its sessions at the Hotel Sherman in this city today. Other topics to be discussed during the three days' session will be the cause and cure of car sickness, the relation of the attendant surgeon to the evidence of personal injury claims, and the role of the railway surgeon in preventing damage claims.

The Champagne of Bottled Beer

You don't know the taste of good beer unless you've tried HIGH LIFE in light bottles—the "finest tasting beer ever produced."

The very next time you order bottled beer do not merely say "Give me a bottle of beer." Make your demand clear and concise. Use these words—"Give me HIGH LIFE in the Light Bottle"—and insist on getting it.

We are educating consumers to use this high grade beer in light bottles—and to distinguish common beer in dark bottles. Convince yourself—order a case today.

Brewed in Milwaukee by the Miller Brewing Co.

On sale at leading Buffets, on Dining Cars and Steamship Lines.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE AND THE BROWN BOTTLE FARCE

An evidence of the intelligence of the American people is shown plainly in their positive rejection of the arguments advanced by the brown bottle advocates.

This is just another instance where the people are content to pass judgment based on their daily experience, rather than on the laughable side show tactics employed to discredit the light bottle.

P. T. Barnum whitewashed an elephant and called it a sacred animal. The white wash did not obscure its ugliness or ugliness. Every beer consumer knows or ought to know that high grade beer in light bottles is unimpaired by any ordinary influence and that dark bottles are generally used for common beer.

On the question of the use of brown bottles, Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, the highest authorities on brewing in the United States, has this to say, and for the use of light bottles for good beer—

"FOR SUCH BEERS THE LIGHT BOTTLE IS PREFERABLY EMPLOYED because it can thoroughly cleanliness, and because the package reveals at a glance whether the contents meet the requirements of the consumer as to color, clarity and freedom from sedimentation."

EXPRESS COMPANIES

While express companies for many years were regarded more soulless than railroads, because they were more of a monopoly, yet the fact remains that they rendered good service and supplied one of the most valuable links in the chain of transportation.

The government now comes in as the first competitor that these companies have ever had and has already captured the most of the small package and short haul business. When the size of the package is increased to one hundred pounds there won't be much left for the express companies. That there are two sides to this question is very clearly brought out by a writer for a financial journal, who says:

"In the near future the express companies and the Interstate Commerce Commission will probably compose their differences over the lower schedule of rates which the commission has already prescribed. A considerable portion of their business in small packages has already been taken from the companies by the parcel post, an institution admirably calculated to compete vigorously with private agencies, since it has not yet elected to settle its transportation bill with the railroads, and can always fall back upon government revenues to meet deficits.

"The time has about arrived for the manufacturing and jobbing interests of the country to consider, solely in the light of their own good, whether it is sound business policy to carry their campaign for restrictive regulation of the express business any further. The parcel post, for better or worse, is a fact. It deserves, and will receive, a fair trial. For the sake of argument, let us assume with Postmaster General Burleson that the weight limit will eventually be expanded to 100 pounds. But not even the warmest protagonists of the parcel post suppose that it yet furnishes a working substitute for the varied services of the express companies, and there is room for argument that it never will.

"No rational man discards his old shoes until he has provided a new pair. The commission's rates represent an average reduction of 10 per cent under the old rates; in respect to some long distance rates, the reduction approximates 50 per cent. The express companies assert that this evidence before the Commerce Commission proved that every dollar of receipts they pay out for cents in operating expenses, including, of course, payments under contract to the railroads for transporting the goods handled. If this is the case, the difference between the old and the new rates is more than enough to wipe out every cent of profit as the business has heretofore been conducted.

"The only recourse of the companies is to seek a greater volume of business and a lower ratio of operating expense. They have already been required by the commission to reform certain methods of dealing with the face of the new competition they cannot afford to render a less satisfactory service to that can possibly be avoided. On the contrary, they are face to face with a crucial test of their ability to render at the lower rates a service of such high quality as will offset both the loss of the small parcel business to the government and the reduced compensation for each item of service rendered.

"Chiefly, but not wholly, the result depends upon the companies; it depends in no negligible degree upon a reasonable, even friendly, co-operation on the part of their patrons."

"SHOOTING UP" THE MOVIES.

Society this winter will have the delightful experience of shooting wild animals in the drawing room, says Wendell Phillips Dodge in the November Popular Mechanics Magazine. No longer is it necessary to go to the heart of Africa, the fastnesses of the Rockies to shoot big game. This can now be done between office hours and dinner in a business suit or after dinner in evening clothes, with no danger to the sportsman, by means of the motion-picture shooting gallery.

From the point of view of sport, the "life" target excels anything ever seen on any rifle range. The excitement of shooting at birds on the wing, at horses leaping fences, at men soaring and dipping, polar bears, Indians in ambush, lions and other beasts in the jungle, motorcycles racing, automobiles speeding, wild ducks taking to the water—almost anything in motion—cannot be appreciated without actual experience.

A New York theatrical manager, hunting for plays on the Continent last spring, fell upon the trail of the life-target shooting pictures. He took his first shot at them in Berlin, and from that day he has not been able to leave a rifle alone. He brought back with him the American rights in this latest "movie" craze.

The novelty of the device is that the instant the rifle cracks the moving film halts for a fraction of a second, just long enough for one to see where his shot has hit. Whether it is a seal springing into the water from a rock, a springing lion or a leaping antelope, the instant the rifle cracks the moving object stops. Then, where the bullet pierced the white paper screen, a little hole appears, showing a red light. This glows for an instant; then the film resumes its motion. The life target provides the marks.

man with objects to shoot at under conditions as realistic as the modern cinematograph can make them. The pictures can be adapted to represent objects at any desired range and at any rate of movement, and the mechanism can be so adjusted as to take account of all the conditions of actual shooting; so that, in firing at a moving object 1,600 feet away, the marksman must take into consideration the motion of the object between the moment of pulling the trigger and the moment the bullet would reach the mark.

For the training of military marksmen the cinematograph target has been approved by the British war office.

Ask nine men out of ten, you meet on the street, "What is the matter with our banking system?" and the answer will be, "Nothing that I know of!" If the tenth man has a grievance, it is likely to be based on a turn down for a loan to which he thought he was entitled, and yet the president is tearing his hair and congress is held in perpetual session in efforts to reform our banking system. Mr. Hurlbert, vice president of the Merchants' Loan and Trust company of Chicago, sized up the situation right last night when he suggested to the Twilight club that banks, like all other corporations, are just now under the ban. The era of regulation is disturbed by every noise that sounds like a dollar.

The women of the city are taking a lively interest in civic affairs and this speaks well for the city. The question of cleanliness and sanitation, as well as the questions of child welfare and public morals, are receiving intelligent attention and only good can result. The tax-payers of Janesville are fortunate in having this kind of support, for everything that tends to better conditions has a financial as well as a moral value and contributes to general prosperity.

The Menominee Herald-Leader celebrated its fiftieth anniversary with a 32-page special edition which speaks well for the paper and the town which supports it. Menominee is one of Michigan's industrial centers, and boasts of a two million dollar payroll. The Herald-Leader is abreast of the times and a credit to the city where it has so long been published. Here's to another half century of prosperity.

The recommendation of Mayor Fathers for a public convenience station to be located at the old Corn Exchange square, is worthy of more than passing notice. If there is anything that the city needs it is just this kind of a building, and if, with it, can be combined a rest room and band-stand, all the better. All cities of any importance provide stations of this kind, and Janesville can well afford to get in line.

FIND TUBERCULOSIS IN HERD OF COUNTY

Thirty-nine Head Afflicted With Dread Bovine Malady—Board of Trustees Meets.

Thirty-nine head of cattle in the herd at the county farm have been found to be afflicted with tuberculosis and condemned by State Veterinarian O. H. Eliason. Two cows in the herd have been sick and about two weeks ago Dr. R. L. Brown, a local veterinarian was called to attend them. He found the symptoms suspicious and tuberculosis was ordered for a test of the herd. Thirty-nine head reacted to the test. The Board of Trustees of the poor farm and asylum met this afternoon to consider the action is to be taken to dispose of the afflicted animals and replace them. As the law is interpreted it is believed that the condemnation of the cattle will mean a total loss to the county as the law makes no provision for their appraisal or the payment of any fraction of their value as has been done in the case of individuals.

The old-fashioned doctor was jolly. He joked with his patients a lot; He came with a bunch of new stories, And stories that just hit the spot. He wasn't no damn scientist. As doctors we see nowadays, He wasn't so grave and mysterious And professorlike in his ways.

The old-fashioned doctor was chum—His business sense was not so keen; He didn't keep books like a banker. Like latter day docs we have seen, We liked him because he cared for us And cured all our ailments and ills And was not so gul durn particular. When it came to collecting his bills.

Husband—Well, then, I have been motoring out to the roadhouse with a party of strange women. Wife—No, you haven't. I know better. Too good to be true. Husband—I have spent the night playing poker with three old college chums.

Wife—Do you think I am a chump enough to believe that? ever try to make me believe that you have not been behaving yourself. Husband—I have been robbing a bank and that's the solemn truth. Wife—No such goods news for me as that. I know what you have been doing. You have been down at the office pouring over your ledger all this time. You needn't try to fool me. I know you have. Husband—Well, I might as well confess. I tried to keep the horrible truth from you, but it wasn't any use. I don't suppose you will forgive me and give me another chance.

Wife—Oh, heavens! Can it be? We have lived together all these years and you can't do anything more devilish with your time than to work on your books. How do you expect I am ever going to get a divorce unless you cut loose and use a little reason on this riddle? Must I remain tied to a heartless wretch who behaves himself all of my days? Before we were married you used to tell me that you were the village idiot and that you always rode home in the patrol wagon. You never were anything but what you are today, an inveterate decent man. You deceived me then and you try to deceive me now. Wretch! Husband—Give me one more chance, Matilda, and I'll be good. I'll come home like a boiled owl and I'll bring two chorus girls with me. I ain't doing nothing to you. Give me a chance. Wife—Well, one more chance, then. But I want you to understand that if you don't engage up and get arrested for speeding or something like that I'm going to quit you anyhow. How can I ever maintain my position in society if I stay married to one man all the time? Now you can't bump right off the road. Good night, and remember the next time you come home like a gentleman I'm going to tunk you on the head with a baseball bat. You gotta give me a chance in this world. Curtain.

AN AGED RESIDENT DIES THIS MORNING

Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor Best, Passes Away at Her Home on Terrace Street, After Week's Illness.

Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor Best, passed away at her home, 410 N. Terrace street this morning at 10:10 o'clock after a week's illness. Mrs. Best was born in Kendall, W. Moreland, England, Feb. 26, 1825. She was married to William Jackson Best, coming to America in 1852. They were among the early settlers of Grant county, Wisconsin. Mrs. Best leaves eight grandchildren and six great grandchildren, one son, William Best of San Antonio, Texas, and one daughter, Miss Maile Best of this city, whose untiring love and devotion prolonged the mother's years to the age of 88. Mrs. Best was a devout member of the Presbyterian church, and only two weeks ago attended services there. She retained all her faculties until the last, her bright mind being a source of inspiration to all who knew her. She was a true Christian woman, and during her long residence here has been beloved by many friends. She passed away so peacefully that those at her bedside scarcely realized her going. The notice of the funeral will be given later after the hearing from the son at San Antonio, and the remains will be taken to Plattville for burial.

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LURIE

CHEER UP!

From many sides come witnesses to assure us that if we would prosper mentally, physically and materially we must cheer up. Nothing is gained by grumpiness, say our official and unofficial advisers.

First, we have the testimony of a Philadelphia lady that if we desire to live long we must guard against low spirits. "Be happy! if you wish to reach a good old age," says this woman. She ought to know, for she has been a resident of this world (formerly miscalled a "vale of tears") for 105 years.

So, you see, if you want to live long you must be cheerful.

Then we have the testimony of certain physicians of Johns Hopkins University Medical school, one of the highest in America, that good cheer and a smile are preventives of threatened appendicitis and other intestinal disorders.

In other words, if you are cheerful enough you may "jolly" your vermiform appendix into thinking there is nothing the matter with it. To those who insist on going through life with grouches the doctor says: "Worry, and you'll get a pain in the side."

You see, don't you, that if you want to be healthy you simply have to be cheerful!

Moreover, every one knows that business success depends in a great measure on a smiling exterior. Even the inanimate place of business, the store or shop which presents a smiling exterior, is more likely to be successful than the one with a forbidding appearance.

Here's a human instance: A successful seller of bonds for one of the big city houses returned to headquarters recently and reported that he had been unable to do any business because he had felt "blue." "When you feel cheerful, you get orders," he said.

If you are not convinced now that you must be cheerful you are a hopeless case. Everything and everybody tells you so, so you must believe it.

How about the things that tend to take away your cheerfulness? you ask. There are no such things. "Forget them!" as the slang phrase has it.

Or, if you are of a literary mind and prefer a translation from a foreign language, listen to this from the German: "Schwamm darüber!" That means "Wipe it out!" (Literally, it means "Sponge over it!")

Every Day Resolve.

I'll this day try to live a simple, sincere and serene life; repelling promptly every thought of discontent, anxiety, discouragement, impurity and self seeking, cultivating cheerfulness, magnanimity, charity and the habit of holy silence; exercising economy in expenditure, carefulness in conversation, diligence in appointed service, fidelity to every trust, and a childlike trust in God.—Bishop Vincent.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Enjoying Trip: Friends of Mr. and F. P. Starr, who left on an extended western trip, have received word that their trip is proving most enjoyable. Their first stop was made at Spokane, Washington, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Loomis. From Spokane, they journeyed to Lewiston, to attend the Lewiston-Clarkston Interstate fair. While at Lewiston they visited Mr. and Mrs. D. Taylor. Their next stop was at Portland, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. L. Holmes before going to California.

Interest in Work: Great interest was shown today in the work of the Gould Construction company, workmen engaged in pouring and tamping concrete for the arch extending from the west bank to pier No. 1. Pouring was begun at the lower extremities of the arch and worked upward on either side toward the crown. The concrete will imbue a great network of metal reinforcing.

OVER THREE HUNDRED ATTEND NIGHT SCHOOL

ENROLLMENT AT OPENING FAR EXCEEDS THAT OF YEAR AGO—GREAT INTEREST.

SEWING VERY POPULAR

Over One Hundred Have Entered—Cooking Class Overcrowded—Commercial Branches Draw Many.

As many as three hundred enrolled students were present last evening at the opening of the night school, which will be held in the high school during the coming fall and winter. Principal C. F. Hill and Superintendent H. C. Buell are both well satisfied with the opening attendance and predictions are that the hundred mark will be reached before the end of the year.

The largest class at present is that which takes up the study of sewing and dressmaking. This study is divided into two sections, the advanced class, and the first year class. Miss Georgia Glidden is at the head of the advanced department, with Miss Gertrude Buchholz as assistant. The beginners' class have its instructor, Miss Ida Lund, and it will be necessary that she have two assistants to aid her in the work. There were over one hundred present last evening at this class.

The elementary class in plain sewing will be organized soon with Miss Beth Bailey of the high school faculty as instructor.

The cooking department under the direction of Mrs. H. H. Coplan, has a class which exceeds the capacity of the room. Accommodations for twenty can be furnished, but if the attendance grows as it has lately, another class will be organized. Close to thirty were enrolled for last night. Those desiring to enter should notify Mr. Hill at once.

But six were present last evening to begin the course in millinery. It takes ten to make up a class, and Mr. Hill expects to have that many by another week. By Thursday of this week, the required number may be enrolled, but this will not hinder anyone else from becoming a member of the class.

There has been some talk of organizing a mother's class for sewing children's clothes, and as soon as the required number is enrolled the class will begin.

Prof. Manross was pleased at the showing made in the commercial work. Twenty began bookkeeping and penmanship work last evening. In the shorthand and typewriting department, sixteen were registered. In the advanced shorthand class, the same number in the first year class. Prof. Curtis will instruct the shorthand students.

Telegraphy does not interest many, for but two were entered last evening. This scope is wide for this line of work, and there should be a large number registered in this class.

There will be no salesmanship class until after the holidays. Close to sixty are expected to attend this class, which will be taught by Prof. Neumann of Wisconsin University, the same instructor that had the class last year.

Prof. Shaffer's class in public speaking and parliamentary practice will be limited to twenty members. Close to that number have been enrolled, but a few vacancies being still open. This course will include studies in citizenship, which is practical.

Each English class began successfully with twenty students. Miss Maud Munroe of the high school faculty has charge of this class and elementary subjects as reading and writing of composition will be taken up throughout the course. In this subject, will be taught by Miss Goldie Dowd.

Prof. Arbuthnot has close to twenty-five in his electricity class. More can be accommodated, he states. Twenty practical lessons will comprise the course, after which engines will be studied under the direction of Prof. Norris of our state university.

Mechanical drawing is another class which has few members. Mr. Coplan, however, expects more to enter soon. Wood-turning will be taken up before the course is completed.

W. H. Albert, carpenter of this city will instruct a class in blue print reading and also in the preparation of these sheets. A wide interest is taken in the success of this school which was only started last year.

ARGUES IN DEFENSE WHITEWATER MAYOR

Attorney Thomas Nolan of This City Takes Part in Impeachment Proceedings Before Council.

Attorney Thomas S. Nolan of this city, last evening appeared before the Whitewater Common Council in behalf of Mayor David F. Zull of that city against whom impeachment proceedings have been brought. The parties seeking his impeachment were represented by City Attorney F. H. Kizer and Attorney J. H. Page. All arguments in the case were presented last night and it is expected that a judgment will be passed by the council at its meeting next Tuesday evening. Practically the only charge on which the impeachment proceedings are based is that of official misconduct on the part of the Mayor whom it is alleged became intoxicated on July 4 last.

PERRUCCIO IS GIVEN HEARING IN BELOIT

Man Accused of Murder of Alessandro Polachi in That City Has His Preliminary Examination.

Joseph Perruccio, the Beloit Italian charged with the murder of his fellow countryman, Alessandro Polachi, and who has been held at the county jail since the shooting, was taken to Beloit this morning for his preliminary examination. He has as his counsel attorneys Thomas S. Nolan of this city and C. D. Rosa of Beloit. District Attorney Dunwiddie conducted the examination for the state.

COUNTY ROAD WORK NEARLY COMPLETED

A FEW SHORT STRETCHES OF HIGHWAY STILL REMAIN TO BE FINISHED.

THIRTY MILES BUILT

County Highway Commissioner Moore Has Accomplished Much During Season Now Closing.

Road work in Rock county for this season has practically been completed according to County Highway Commissioner C. B. Moore, and approximately thirty miles of new highway will have been built and four miles of county road resurfaced before winter sets in. Highway work is being finished in the town of Clinton. Contractor Daniel Drey has two pieces of road, 400 and 4,500 feet long to complete in the town of Union, P. W. Ryan and Sons have a mile and a half to resurface in the town of Porter, this being part of three miles on new road, and there is a small piece to be built in the town of Magnolia.

Gravel and clay with a stone foundation have been the materials used in constructing all new highway this year. All the work done in the following towns: A mile in Clinton, mile and two-thirds in Union, mile and a quarter in Johnston, and a mile and a half in Harmony, was of the all gravel type.

In the towns of Newark and Ayon no gravel is available. Two roads entirely constructed of rock rubble were built in these settlements ago, but they were rough and unsatisfactory and no more rock that kind will be done. Rock will have to be crushed to give them proper surfacing.

Gravel found in the towns of Harmony, Johnston, Milton and Lima, is more to be desired than gravel elsewhere. It comes from the pit but it is provision was made for crushing it would make the best possible road metal. Frequently it is necessary to screen out this coarse material if the gravel is to be used for road building.

Conditions with the result that the residue is too fine and sandy in order to obtain satisfactory results. Water-binding will be employed by Contractor to bind the road he is completing in Clinton.

Stone flag foundation is used where the gravel is inferior or the roads are in low and wet spots. No crushed rock macadam road has been built in the town of Clinton since it was taken over by the United States government. It has held up well and the foundation is in good condition but it is in need of resurfacing. It is probable that no more road of this type will be built in this county as stone macadam does not stand up as well under modern traffic as does good gravel.

Road Commissioner Moore reports that the sentiment for good road work is rapidly growing in Rock county. Each place constructed creates a demand for more and every farmer who becomes the owner of an automobile becomes a booster for good roads.

FARMER CAME EARLY TO OBTAIN PRISONER

Christ Schultz, Sentenced From Beloit, Taken to Work Before He Had Received Breakfast.

Some idea of the eagerness with which farmers seek to obtain the services of prisoners sentenced to terms at labor may be gained from the fact that a farmer called at the county jail for one this morning before the prisoners had been served their breakfast. He was permitted to take with him Christ Schultz, who was sentenced to a ten day term for intoxication.

Robert Welch, who was given a thirty day sentence in the local municipal court yesterday afternoon, will be in the day and night guard, who was a farmer in Lima township. He has left money with Turnkey Wagon to pay the railway fare of Welch to Lima. Fred DeGroat, who received a similar sentence, has paid his fine of $25 and costs.

JOY RIDERS CHANGE PLEAS TO GUILTY

ored Men, and Ben Nettem of Edgerton, Given Penalties.

Philip Jones and Merle Stampher, two colored men, and Ben Nettem, a white man, all of Edgerton, who pleaded "not guilty" to a charge of intoxication in the municipal court yesterday morning following their arrest the previous evening, changed their minds and pleaded guilty at four o'clock in the afternoon before Judge Macfield. A fine of $5 and costs was imposed upon Jones. Stampher was not able to pay a fine of $15 and costs and got thirty days in jail. A fine of $5 and costs was imposed upon Nettem. The three were in an automobile which stalled on the Five Points crossing Monday night and made it necessary for a passenger train to stop to avoid striking the machine. All of them had a good story, and all but Stampher were vouchered for by their friends.

ENTERTAIN ON OCCASION OF ELEVENTH BIRTHDAY

Miss Frederica McBain, who resides on Pleasant street, entertained on the occasion of her eleventh birthday yesterday afternoon at her home.

Saturnalia birthday cake occupied the center of the table, with pink and white carnations surrounded it. A Victrola furnished the music. Three auto were furnished during the afternoon to give the merry youngsters an enjoyable ride after which, the dinner was held. Those present were the Misses Margaret Brazill, Edith, Catherine and Elizabeth Schidler, Gladys Smith, Winnifred Schickler, Mabel and Margaret Bahr, Bernice Barker, Kathryn Deaton, Rose Gray, Hazel Sage, Edna Hudson, Mary Dawson, Margaret Heise, Mabel Buggs, Esther Heller, Erma Glass, Helen Garbutt, Carrie and Helen Young, Genevieve Jensen, Winnifred Britt, Virginia Jagg, Eileen Dixon, Helen Fellows, Katherine Madden and Freda and Irene McBain. The Misses Hazel McKeligue and Jessie Reed aided in entertaining the host of young ladies who were safely taken to their homes at eight o'clock.

HIGH BUTTER PRICE IS DOWN TWO CENTS

Over Supply of Fresh Product and Break of Cold Storage on Market Brings Relief.—Eggs Still Soar.

At last butter prices have dropped. On Saturday at Chicago the big receipts of the fresh product that flooded into the middleman's hands at the breaking of the cold storage product, sent the Elgin prices down from thirty-one to twenty-nine and a half. It is declared that there are over twenty-five million pounds of butter tied up in the cold storage and on Saturday the storage men made use of the high price to reap enormous profits.

As the producers charge the local dealers from a cent and a half to two cents above the Elgin price, the housewife will find butter at the stores selling at thirty-four cents, which is something of a relief from the exorbitant price that has ruled the market for the past month. Eggs still remain at twenty-eight and will stay there until the farmers bring enough to the dealers to offset the work of the cold storage men. Grapes rose in price yesterday, due to the limited supply. Good bananas are on the market at the present time and are selling at reasonable prices.

Division of the Days.

Bessie and Bertie, at a loss for a new game to play, hit upon the idea of being "at home" and having "a day." Bessie hit upon the plan, that is, Bertie wanted to know what she meant by "at home" and "a day." "Why, don't you know?" asked Bessie, astonished. "All the stylish people have days for being at home to visitors. G'd's day is Sunday, and mother's is Tuesday."

IF MEALS HIT BACK AND STOMACH SOURS

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends indigestion, Gas, Dyspepsia and Stomach Misery in five minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes. The formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent boxes of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the toilet with a healthy appetite, but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

ROME

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

ROME, the capital of Italy, and the world's metropolis of broken noses, stone statues is the greatest come-back town of history.

Two thousand years ago Rome was the greatest city in the world. It had a million citizens, and when it got mad at a nation a thousand miles away, that nation promptly retired from business and opened up under a new name and management. Rome was a marvel of stone and marble, and was so glorious that those who lived elsewhere were called barbarians, and were only used for lion food in the great city when they were captured. But Rome got into politics; the cost of living went up, and a job lot of Emperors, whose career made Harry Thaw's look like that of a Sunday School boy, got hold of the town. The result was, Rome fell. The citizens departed, the postoffice was closed, the roof of the board of trade caved in and chickweed grew in the great forum. Geographers forgot to put it on the map, census enumerators passed it by, and the lively polecat made its fair unhindered in the palaces of the mighty has been.

For several centuries Rome was deadlier than Damascus, and everyone allowed that a mighty line corn country was being spoiled by the ruins of a punk town. But gradually the city began to come back. The Chamber of Commerce secured the headquarters of the Christian religion, then a struggling institution, and Rome began to boom again. By 1500 A. D. Rome was running the world once more, and it has continued to take a big hand in history ever since.

Rome now has 600,000 people, which is doing pretty well for a deceased town. It is situated on seven hills, and the Tiber, which has never been improved for navigation purposes owing to the poor grade of the Roman, Congressmen which have been elected, Rome is a bustling modern town situated in, around and on top of the old Rome. It has factories, wholesale houses and street cars, a health commission and a public bureau, but none as grand or extensive as the structures which were left 1500 years ago by the Romans when they hurriedly packed up and left. The Roman housewife hangs out her modern wash where Roman emperors once dined on nightingales' tongues, and when the Roman Taxi-cab driver struggles for his fare the Roman Coliseum where once 200,000 people yelled for blood, echoes back his sanguinary words.

Rome is the world's headquarters for sculptors, artists and architects. Mining for ancient statuary is one of the city's most profitable occupations, and almost daily the humble ditch digger swears as he stubs his spade on the classic brow of a marble statue, which was greatly admired two thousand years ago.

Rome will have a million inhabitants again some day, and they will be much better behaved than the original million, even if they do not produce so impressive a skyline.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

LIVING WITHIN OUR INCOMES.
A FRIEND of mine, whose husband probably earns about $4,000 a year, told me the other day that she had great difficulty in keeping her household budget—rent, domestic service, food and fuel—down to $50 a week. "It seems a good deal," she admitted, "but most of my friends spend about that. I don't really see how one can do it for less and live decently."

As I listened to her, there came into my mind two different and yet similar complaints to which I have listened.

The first was from a woman whose husband earns in the neighborhood of $2,000 a year. "I've done my best," she said, "but I can't keep our household expenses below $22 a week, and when clothes and doctor's bills and all the unexpected extras have to come out of the other $17, that doesn't leave much to save, but I simply can't see how we could live comfortably on any less."

The second statement came from a sweet little wife whose husband's salary is $25 a week. "We spend exactly $17 a week on our housekeeping," she said. "I wish we could save more, but we really can't live comfortably on any less with things costing as they do."

And now I suppose you want to know what I'm aiming at with all these figures?

Just this. The tenacity with which standards of living and incomes cling together.

For the woman with the $50 a week income, the minimum on which one could decently keep, has been $50. The woman who had to reckon on $40 a week managed it on $23; and the wife who had to help her husband spread $25 over all the family needs got along on $17. Each one said she was doing the best that could be done. And yet if the $50 wife had been put in place of the $40 or the $25 wife, I know she would have managed very well to help spend, she got an $80 point of view.

Do you know how the foreign born tortoise who so often pass our American hares in the race for wealth manage that miracle? They just don't let their standards of living keep right on the heels of their incomes all the time. They keep the first stationary, or nearly so, while the other increases.

Yes, I know the American standard of living is a precious thing, and I know it is natural and right for people to want to have pleasant surroundings, better food, etc., as soon as they are able to. But I do not think we could keep a somewhat wider gap between our incomes and our standards of living if we would try to do so.

The ability to save is not a question of possessing any particular amount of money. Like Boston, it's just a state of mind. Of course there is such a thing as keeping one's standard of living too far below one's income, but I know very few people who do it. More of us need to remember that if we were earning $5 or $10 less a week, we would still manage to live quite comfortably on that much less, and to ask ourselves why we can't do it anyway.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Never spread rugs or carpets on the floor until the floors are perfectly dry.

To polish mirrors use a flannel dampened in camphor.

If the inner rim of a kettle is grazed its contents will never boil over.

To clean the wire of a milk strainer, when the holes get filled up, rub salt into it thoroughly, then wash with hot water.

To remove white spots made by water or heat on varnished furniture, rub with spirits of camphor.

THE TABLE.

Fish Cakes.—Two and a half cups of cold cooked fish, salt, pepper, paprika, a little lemon juice, one tablespoonful of parsley. Mix all the ingredients in a basin; shape in little flat cakes; roll in bread crumbs, brush over with a beaten egg, then roll in bread crumbs again, and fry in hot fat to a golden color. Drain and serve hot.

Cheese Toast.—Grate six ounces of cheese, put it into a baking dish, and let it melt in the oven, adding three tablespoonfuls of milk, a little salt and pepper, and one level tablespoonful of butter, then spread it thickly over well-buttered toast, sprinkle over with red pepper, and serve very hot.

Rice Soup.—A quarter of a pound of rice, three tablespoonfuls of butter, one turnip, one carrot, pepper, paprika, salt, one quart of stock or water and one quart of milk or cream. Wash the rice well in several waters, drain, and put in a saucepan with one heaping tablespoonful of the butter, stir it gently over the fire until the butter melts, then add the stock water, the milk hot and let it boil up. Take off the steam, and add all the butter, and serve very hot, then add the rest of the butter, too.

turnip cut in dice and the carrot grated, season to taste with salt, pepper and paprika.

Allow it to cook until the vegetables are tender, then serve.

Rice and Egg Pudding.—Two cups of cold rice, add the well-beaten yolks of two eggs, a pinch of salt, one-half cupful of sugar, one and one-half cupfuls of sweet milk, and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Put half of this mixture in a buttered pudding dish, add a generous layer of chopped figs, and add the remainder of the rice. Dot the top with bits of butter, bake for half an hour in a moderate oven, and serve hot with a sweet sauce or with cream.

Cranberry Tart Pie.—Pick one quart of cranberries free from all imperfections, put them into a saucepan; add one pint of water, one pound of sugar, and simmer gently until soft, then wash the berries with a silver spoon until smooth, or rub through a colander to free them from the skin. Turn out onto a plate to get quite cold. Line pie plates with thin puff paste; fill them with the cooked cranberries, and brush over with beaten egg and bake in a hot oven till done.

Cheese in Pepper Shells.—Scorch sweet red pepper shells slightly in a quick oven, or on a broiler, and remove the seeds. Split with one careful slash and remove the seeds. Insert in each pepper a little ball of rather dry cottage cheese. Fasten the openings closely with toothpicks. Dip the peppers in egg and fine crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Tossed Shrimps.—Put one tablespoonful of butter into a frying pan, add two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped parsley. Take a half a pint of shelled shrimps, dip them into flour with white pepper, salt and a dash of pepper should previously have been mixed; then throw the shrimps into the frying pan, shake them about till they have absorbed all the butter, and serve very hot, with buttered toast.

slowly for twenty minutes. Serve on hot steak.

Creamed Mushrooms.
To every pint of mushrooms tops add one tablespoonful of butter and cook, covered, slowly fifteen minutes. Then add one-half cup of cream and one tablespoonful of flour, salt and pepper. Remove from the fire and add yolk of egg and one tablespoonful of sherry if you use it. These may be served on toast or in puff paste, patty cases.

Remember they must be cooked slowly and have considerable moisture in them.

Mushrooms With Oysters.

Prepare twelve large mushrooms tops. Sauté in butter five minutes. Place on rounds of buttered toast, gills upward; sprinkle with salt, pepper and bits of butter. Lay in the center of each an oyster, sprinkle with seasoned buttered crumbs. Bake fifteen minutes in a fairly hot oven, basting three times with melted butter. Serve as an entree.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

IF YOU were busy being kind Before you knew it you would find You'd soon forget to think 'twas true That some one was unkind to you.

If you were busy being glad, And cheering people who are sad, Although your heart might ache a bit, You'd soon forget to notice it.

APPETIZING DISHES.

A most satisfying and good looking dish is this: Brown a few slices of onion in a little butter, then add a half cup of cold cooked rice, and when well browned three slightly beaten eggs and a half cup of milk. Stir until the eggs are cooked, sprinkle with a slice of finely minced boiled ham, and serve at once.

Cream Cake.—Bake cake in two layers, and put together with sweetened whipped cream which has been flavored with a cup of peach pulp put through a fine sieve. Flavor with a few drops of almond.

Coffee Junket.—For a simple and dainty dessert, and one which is easy to make, junket certainly stands high in favor. One tablet dissolved in a tablespoonful of water and added to a quart of milk is sufficient to thicken that amount. Reserve a half cup of milk, and pour boiling hot over two tablespoonfuls of ground coffee; let stand until well infused, then strain. Warm the remainder of the milk to a blood heat, not hot or the rennin will not act on the milk; then add the dissolved tablet and the coffee infusion, stir well and put in sherbet glasses to set. Serve with whipped cream on the top of each glass.

Macaroon Fancy.—Select as many large macaroons as are required, with a few sponge cakes. Arrange the sponge cakes or lady fingers upright with a macaroon for the bottom of the little box. Stick them together with boiled frosting and serve them filled with a preserved strawberry and whipped cream filling. A little gelatine may be added to the fruit to make it keep its shape, if so desired.

Relish Maxwell.
Height of Stinginess.
Many a "good fellow" is so stingy with his family that he'll stand between his wife and a show window.

PRETTY EVENING GOWN OF SATIN

This pretty gown is made of white, blue and black satin. The closely fitting bodice has triangular shaped sections of blue satin over the shoulders and also over the top of the kimono sleeves. The girle of checked blue and white velvet is caught beneath a cameo at the front, which is set on a fluting of blue satin. This is repeated at the center of the skirt, the latter being caught up beneath it and falling in ripples to either side of the front.

NEW MINISTER TO VENEZUELA AND FAMILY ON THEIR WAY TO CARACAS

Mrs. Preston McGoodwin and son, the newly appointed American minister to Venezuela, have recently left Washington and are now on their way with Mr. McGoodwin to Caracas, Venezuela, his new post. Mrs. McGoodwin is a daughter of C. E. Currier, a Missouri newspaper publisher, and has been married eight years.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What would be good to wash the hair? Is raw egg good?

(2) Do you think it is right to keep secrets from father or mother?

(3) What color shoes are worn mostly? TODDLERS.

(1) Beat up a couple of raw eggs, put well into the hair and let dry. Have a teaspoon of washing soda dissolved in a cup of boiling water. Put this into a large pan of lukewarm water. Wash your hair thoroughly in this, then rinse the hair four or five times with fresh water each time. Rub and brush dry.

(2) It is very wrong, my dear. Father and mother love their little girl and wish to have her happy, but they can't advise her properly if she has secrets from them.

(3) Tan and black.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a very nice, handsome boy since May. We love each other very dearly. VERY dearly. He told me something which came near breaking my heart. He had been going with another girl and he said he kissed her. But he says he never loved anyone but me. I told him I would try to forget, but I didn't.

MISS B.

My dear little girl, you are lucky if you are engaged to a man who has never kissed more than one girl, and that only once. Hang on to this young man and love him with all your heart, and forget all about that first stray kiss. If you can't forget it, let him know it he will be wishing he had kept on kissing the other girl and then some.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What will remove butterbean and grape stain from white cotton goods?

(2) How can I clean white furs, white beaver and white, willow plume?

(3) Are white beavers and willow plumes to be worn this winter?

(4) What is the leading color this season for hats?

(5) Is my writing good? L. J.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

By FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

A social person is one who when he has ten minutes to spare uses it to bother some one who is busy.

Now are the men as guilty in this respect as we women? You don't hear our saying to son, "Keep away from that Blank boy, they are not desirable." "Don't walk to school with the Blank boy, you will not be rated well." If the boys are clean, healthy laddies (and of good sports, friend John wisely sees that you will be the better for rubbing elbows with his little fellow-men.

How is it with our mothers? "Say, I don't want you to play with the little girl across the street, I think they are uncouth. You are forbidden to walk home from school again with that Blank girl, you MUST be more careful who you go with, and so on."

Little Susie being an obedient child, obeys. Presently she ceases to come home with the wonderful tales of adventure that happened at school and if you are a careful watcher of your children you are a bit perplexed.

Susie is not her bright, sunny self. The fact that you have, in your blind ignorance, denied your wee daughter the happy privilege of being a little democrat never enters your mind. The aristocracy of class must be lived up to, even though your daughter be robbed of her heritage of a happy childhood.

Now I am strongly in favor of a mother knowing who her child plays with, where they are, every minute of the day, and of a child being allowed to bring their little playmates home with them.

But this plan of sizing up a child's clothes and deciding that the child is not eligible for your kiddies to play with—Bosh!

Let us be social, but not too much so. Let us be kind (no fear of our over-doing it) truthful and of gracious manner. In short let us teach our children, and in the teaching, learn ourselves, to walk the road trod by man. It is acknowledged that every country must have its different classes, but why snobs?

JILTS FIANCE ON SEEING WINDY CITY

Anna Howard.

Anna Howard, a Kentucky belle, jilted her fiance when she saw the glitter of Chicago. She came from Paducah to the Windy City, where she was to marry a traveling salesman she met in her home town. When she saw the tall buildings she changed her mind and decided not to marry. She went to a police station, where she sought shelter. The girl will work in Chicago, several jobs having been offered.

president questioned of women's dress with a proposal that the federation unite in a plea to womankind for more modest attire, will figure prominently at the opening coming convention of the Federation of Women's clubs at Sheboygan Oct. 25. This was the outline of the program given out today when Mrs. J. A. Strahorn of Oshkosh went to Milwaukee for a ten days' visit to the women's clubs of southern Wisconsin.

"I hope no woman will come in the immodest attire of the present day," Mrs. Strahorn said. "I hope the federation will take pains to indicate our sentiments on the dress problem."

"It would be disgraceful if the women ever come with slit skirts, and nothing would operate so well as to throw discredit upon women's clubs that extreme clothing at a formal meeting of our clubs. Those attending should be so garbed as not to attract attention when ascending on the platform or ascending stair car steps."

CHAPTER XIII.

"Well," she said, and stood staring. Then she smiled—I guess our faces were funny.

"May I come in?" she asked, and without waiting she came in and closed the door. "You do look cozy!" she said, and shook herself free of snow.

Mr. Dick had turned white. He got up with his eyes on her, and twice he opened his mouth and couldn't speak. He backed, still watching her, to his wife, and stood in front of her, as if to protect her.

Mr. Sam got his voice first.

"E—bad night for a walk," he said. "Frightful!" she said. "I've been buried to my knees. May I sit down?" To those of us who knew her easy manner had something horrible in it.

"Sorry there are no chairs, Julia," Mr. Pierce said. "Sit on the cot, won't you?"

"Who is it?" Mrs. Dick asked from, as you may say, her eclipse. She and Miss Summers were the only calm ones in the room.

"I—I don't know," Mr. Dick stammered, but the next moment Miss Julia, from the cot, looked across at him and grinned.

"Well, Dick!" she said. "Who'd have thought it?"

"You said you didn't know her!" his wife said from behind him.

"Who'd have thought what—what?" he asked with bravado.

"All this!" Miss Julia waved her hand around the room, with its bare walls, and blankets over the windows to keep the light in and the cold out, and the circle of us sitting around on sand boxes from the links and lawn rollers. "To find you here, all snug in your own home, with your household gods and a wife. Nobody could think of anything to say. That is," she went on, "I believe there is a wife. Good heavens, Dick, it isn't Minnie!"

He stepped aside at that, disclosing Mrs. Dick on her box, with her childish eyes wide open.

"There—there is a wife, Julia," he said. "This is her—she."

Well, she'd come out to make mischief—it was written all over her when she came in the door, but when Mr. Dick presented his wife, frightened as he was and still proud of her, and Mrs. Dick smiled in her pretty way, Miss Summers just walked across and looked down at her with a queer look on her face. I shut my eyes and waited for the crash, but nothing came, and when I opened them again there were the two women holding hands and Miss Summers smiling a sort of crooked grin at Mr. Dick.

"I ought to be very angry with your husband," she said. "I—well, I never expected him to marry, without my being among those present. But since he has done it—! Dick, you wretched boy, you took advantage of my being laid up with the mumps!"

"Mumps!" Mrs. Dick said. "Why, he has just had them himself!" She looked around the circle suspiciously, and every one of us looked as guilty as if he had been caught with the mumps concealed around him somewhere.

"I didn't have real mumps," Mr. Dick explained. "It was only—er—a swelling."

"You said it was mumps, and even now you hate pickles!"

Mr. Pierce had edged over to Miss Summers and patted her shoulder.

"Be a good sport, Julia," he whispered.

She threw off his hand.

"I'm being an idiot!" she said angrily. "Dick's an ass, and he's treated me like a villain, but look at that baby! It will be twenty years before she has to worry about her weight."

"I think we'd better be going," Miss Patty got up and gathered up her cloak. But if she meant to break up the party Miss Summers was not ready.

"If you don't mind," she said, "I'll stay. I'm frozen, and I've got to go home and sleep with my window up. You're lucky," she went on to the Dicks. "I dare say the air in here would scare us under a microscope, but at least it is warm."

The Van Alstyne made a move to go, but Mr. Dick frantically gestured to them not to leave him alone, and Mrs. Sam sat down again sulkily. Mr. Pierce picked up his cap.

"I'll take you back," he said to Miss Patty, and his face was fairly glowing. But Miss Patty slipped her arm through mine.

"Come, Minnie, Mr. Pierce is going to take us," she said.

"I'd—rather go alone," I said.

"Nonsense."

"I'm not ready. I've got to gather up these dishes," I objected. Out of the corner of my eye I could see the glow dying out of Mr. Pierce's face. But Miss Patty took my arm and led me to the door.

"Let them gather up their own dishes," she said. "Dolly, you ought to be ashamed to let Minnie slave for you the way she does. Good night, everybody."

I did my best to leave them alone on the way back, but Miss Patty stuck close to my heels. It was snowing, and the going was slow. For the first five minutes she only spoke once.

"And so Miss Summers and Dicky Carter are old friends!"

"It appears so," Mr. Pierce said.

"She's rather magnanimous, under the circumstances," Miss Patty remarked demurely.

"Under what circumstances?"

I heard her laugh a little, behind me.

"Never mind," she said. "You needn't tell me anything you don't care to. But what a stew you must all have been in!"

There was a minute's silence behind me, and then Mr. Pierce laughed too.

"Stew!" he said. "For the last few days I've been either paralyzed with fright or electrified into wild bursts of mendacity. And I'm not naturally a liar."

"Really!" she retorted. "What an actor you are!"

They laughed together at that, and I gained a little on them. At the corner where the path skirted the deer park and turned toward the house I lost them altogether and I floundered on alone. But I had not gone twenty feet when I stopped suddenly. About fifty yards ahead a lantern was coming toward me through the snow, and I could hear a man's voice, breathless and gasping.

"Set it down," it said. "The damned thing must be filled with lead." It sounded like Thoburn.

"It's the snow," another voice replied, Mr. von Inwald's. "I told you it would take two trips."

"Yes," Thoburn retorted, breathing in groans. "Stay up all night to get the blamed stuff here, and then get up at dawn for a cold bath and a twenty-mile walk and an apple for breakfast. Ugh, my shoulder is dislocated."

I turned and flew back to Miss Patty and Pierce. They had stopped in the shelter of the fence corner and Mr. Pierce was on his knees in front of her! I was so astounded that I forgot for the moment what had brought me.

"Just a second," he was saying. "It's ice on the heel!"

"Please get up off your knees, you'll take cold."

"Never had a cold. I'll scrape it off with my knife. Why don't you wear overshoes?"

"I never have a cold!" she retorted.

"Why, Minnie, is that you?"

"Quick," I panted. "Thoburn and Mr. von Inwald coming—basket—lantern—warn the shelter-house!"

"Great Scott!" Mr. Pierce said. "Here, you girls crawl over the fence; you'll be hidden there. I'll run back and warn them."

The lantern was swinging again. Mr. Thoburn's grumbling came to us through the snow.

"I can't climb the fence!" Miss Patty said pitifully. But Mr. Pierce had gone.

I reached my basket through the bars and climbed the fence in a hurry. Miss Patty had got almost to the top and was standing there on one snow-covered rail, staring across at me through the darkness.

"I can't, Minnie," she whispered hopelessly. "I never could climb a fence, and in this skirt!"

"Quick!" I said in a low tone. The lantern was very close. "Put your leg over."

She did, and sat there looking down at me like a scared baby.

"Now the other."

"I—I can't!" she whispered. "If I put them both over I'll fall!"

"Hurry!"

With a little grunt she put the other foot over, sat a minute with agony in her face and her arms out, then she slid off with a squeal and brought up in a sitting position inside the fence corner. I dropped beside her.

"What was that noise?" said Thoburn, almost upon us. "Something's moving inside that fence corner."

"It's them deers," Mike's voice this time. We could make out the three figures. "Darned nuisance, them deers is. They'd have been shot long ago if the springhouse girl hadn't objected. She thinks she's the whole cheese around here."

"Set it down again," Mr. von Inwald panted. We heard the rattle of bottles as they put down the basket, and the next instant Thoburn's fat hand was resting on the rail of the fence over our heads. I could feel Miss Patty trembling beside me.

But he didn't look over. He stood there resting, breathing hard, and swearing at the weather, while Mike waited, in surly silence, and the von Inwald cursed in German.

After my heart had been beating in my ears for about three years the fat hand moved, and I heard the rattle of glass again and Thoburn's groans as he bent over his half of the load.

"Come on," he said, and the others grunted and started on.

When they had disappeared in the snow we got out of our cramped position and prepared to scurry home. I climbed the fence and looked after them. "Humph!" I said. "I guess that basket isn't for the hungry poor. I'd give a good bit to know—!" Then I turned and looked for Miss Patty. She was flat on the snow, crawling between the two lower rails of the fence.

"Have you no shame?" I demanded.

She looked up at me with her head and half her long sealskin coat through the fence.

"None," she said pitifully. "Minnie, I'm stuck perfectly tight!"

"You ought to be left as you are," I said, jerking at her, "for people to come"—jerk—"tomorrow to look at"—jerk. She came through at that, and we lay together in the snow and like a burst a rib laughing.

"You'll never be a princess, Miss Patty," I declared. "You're too lowly minded."

She sat up suddenly and straightened her sealskin cap on her head.

"I wish," she said unpleasantly. "I wish you wouldn't always drag in disagreeable things, Minnie!"

And she was sulky all the way to the house.

Miss Summers came to my room that night as I was putting my hot-water bottle to bed, in a baby-blue silk wrapper with a band of fur around the low neck—Miss Summers, of course, not the hot-water bottle.

"Well!" she said, sitting down on the foot of the bed and staring at me. "Well, young woman, for a person who has never been farther away than Finleyville you do pretty well!"

"Do what?" I asked, with the covers up to my chin.

"Do what, Miss Innocence!" she said mockingly. "You're the only red-haired woman I ever saw who didn't look as sophisticated as the devil. I'll tell you one thing, though." She reached down into the pocket of her dressing-gown and brought up a cigarette and a match. "You never had me fooled for a minute!" She looked at me over the match.

I lay and stared back.

"And another thing," she said. "I never had any real intention of marrying Dicky Carter and raising a baby sanatorium. I wouldn't have the face to ask Arabella to live here."

"I'm glad you feel that way, Miss Summers," I said. "I've gone through a lot; I'm an old woman in the last two weeks. My hair's falling from its having to stand up on end half the time."

She leaned over and put her cigarette on the back of my celluloid mirror, and then suddenly she threw back her head and laughed.

"Minnie!" she said, between fits. "Minnie! As long as I live I'll never forget that wretched boy's face! And the sand boxes! And the blankets over the windows! And the tarpaulin over the rafters! And Mr. Van Alstyne sitting on the lawnmower! I'd rather have had my minute in that doorway than fifty thousand dollars!"

"If you had had to carry out all those things—" I began, but she checked me.

"Listen!" she said. "Somebody with brains has got to take you young people in hand. You're not able to look after yourselves. I'm fond of Alan Pierce, for one thing, and I don't care to see a sanatorium that might have been the child of my solicitude kidnapped and reared as a summer hotel by Papa Thoburn. A good fat man is very, very good, Minnie, but when he is bad he is horrid."

"It's too late," I objected feebly. "He can't get it now."

"Can't he!" She got up and yawned, stretching. "Well, I'll lay you ten to one that if we don't get busy he'll have the house empty in thirty-six hours, and a bill of sale on it in as many days." Then she told me what she knew of Thoburn's scheme, and it turned me cold.

Doctor Barnes came to me at the news stand the next morning before gymnasium.

"Well," he said, "you look as busy as a dog with fleas. Have you heard the glad tidings?"

"What?" I asked without much spirit. "I've heard considerable tidings lately, and not much of it has cheered me up any."

ABE MARTIN

"It's the easiest thing in the world to acquire a full knowledge of the stage," said Miss Fawn Lipplint this morning. "For instance, I, e. means left entrance, r. e. means right entrance, s. r. e. means second right entrance, u. s. means up stage, an. u. t. e. means 'Uncle Tom's Cabin'. Lots o' folks applaud a Wagner selection first, a piece o' ragtime for an encore."

EASY WAY TO GET RID OF PIMPLES

Resinol Really Does What Cosmetics Are Supposed To Do.

It is so easy to get rid of pimples and blackheads with Resinol, and it costs so little, too, that anyone whose face is disfigured by these pests is foolish to keep on with useless creams, washes or complicated "beauty treatments." Here's the way to do it:

Bathe your face for several minutes with Resinol Soap and hot water, then apply a little Resinol Ointment very gently. Let this stay on ten minutes, and wash off with Resinol Soap and more hot water, finishing with a dash of cold water to close the pores. Do this every morning and evening, and you will be surprised to see how quickly the healing, antiseptic Resinol balsams soothe and cleanse every pore, leaving the complexion clear and velvety.

Resinol stops itching instantly and speedily heals eczema, and other skin humors, dandruff, sores, burns and piles. Sold by every druggist, Resinol Ointment, 50 cts. and $1.00; Resinol Soap, 25 cts. For generous free trial, write Dept. 4-M, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Dinner Stories

Those who know a certain southern senator will picture his ample proportions when they read this story. The senator journeyed through the south he was very much annoyed one day at the delay in getting food served in a certain cafe. He had given his order and waited patiently an unreasonable length of time, when the waiter appeared and was overcently looking for some one who must have gone out without waiting for his meal.

When asked by the senator whom he was looking for he replied:

"A little boy gave his order."

The senator replied: "I am that boy."

"You believe in keeping politics on a high plane and eliminating personalities, do you not?" asked the reformer.

MACON, GA., CHILD

Made Strong and Well by Vinol.

When we tell you that Vinol is the best remedy in our whole stock for making weak, puny, ailing children strong, robust and happy, we are only telling you what has been proved by hundreds of mothers.

J. L. Fickling, Macon, Ga., says: "My child was very thin and delicate, no appetite, nervous, and did not sleep well. Doctors did not help her. Vinol was recommended and the change after a fair trial was wonderful. She sleeps soundly all night, has a splendid appetite and has gained in weight. I wish every mother knew what Vinol will do for delicate children."

What Vinol did for this little girl it will do for every weak and ailing child because sickly children need the strengthening cod liver elements and the tonic iron that Vinol contains—that is why Vinol builds them up quickly and gives them a fine, healthy color. It is pleasant to take and we guarantee that the results will satisfy you—money back if they do not. Smith Drug Co., Druggists, Jacksonville, Wis.

How a Janesville Citizen Found Freedom From Kidney Troubles.

If you suffer from backache, urinary disorders, any curable disease of the kidneys, use a tested kidney remedy. Doan's Kidney Pills have been tested by thousands. Janesville people testify.

Can you ask more convincing proof of merit?

A. S. Wright, railroad engineer, 321 N. Chatham St., Janesville, Wis., says: "The jarring an engineer gets is mighty hard on his back and kidneys, so it's no wonder that I began to feel that something was wrong. My kidneys were out of order and they acted irregularly. I had severe backaches and pains across the small of my back. It hurt me to get up or down. Almost all railroad men know about Doan's Kidney Pills so, of course, I used some, too. In a short time Doan's Kidney Pills put a stop to all the pains and made my kidneys act as they should. I still use Doan's Kidney Pills once in a while and they keep my kidneys in good shape."
